

Client Relationship Summary
Bramshill Investments, LLC

Item 1

Bramshill Investments, LLC (“Bramshill” or “we”) is an investment adviser registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”). We do not provide securities brokerage services. Brokerage and investment advisory services and fees differ and it is important for retail investors to understand the differences. The SEC provides free educational materials about investment advisors, brokerage services and investing as well as offers simple tools to help you research firms and financial professionals at www.investor.gov/CRS.

Item 2

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We offer investment advisory services to retail investors through separately managed accounts (“SMAs”) on a discretionary basis. SMAs are offered on both a direct basis and through sub-advisory arrangements with other financial services firms, certain of which are offered as wrap fee programs.

We may, in our discretion, tailor our investment strategy to your needs and objectives, and we may allow you to impose reasonable limitations on the investments selected for your accounts. We will monitor your portfolio, investment strategy, and investments on an ongoing basis. We generally impose a minimum portfolio size of at least $250,000, although we may under very limited circumstances accept accounts with smaller portfolios based upon certain criteria.

For more information regarding all of our services, read the accompanying ADV Brochure Items 4 and 7.

Conversation Starters:

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

Item 3

What fees will I pay?

For SMAs, the annual management fee is individually negotiated and can range up to 100 basis points (1.00%) on your assets under management. We may negotiate to charge a higher or lower management fee (or offset/rebate a portion of the management fee) based upon certain criteria such as strategy customization and similar factors. You may also incur certain charges imposed by other third parties, such as broker-dealers, custodians, trust companies, banks and other financial institutions. As mentioned above, we also may participate as portfolio managers under third-party wrap fee programs, which would be inclusive of advisory and brokerage services¹. Asset-based fees associated with the wrap fee programs will include most transaction costs and fees to a broker-dealer or bank that has custody of these assets, and therefore are higher than a typical asset-based advisory fee. We monitor the fees charged to your accounts on an ongoing basis to ensure all fees are consistent with the agreed-upon terms stated within your advisory agreement.

¹ We seek best execution under all circumstances and the nature of our strategies requires us to trade with counterparties other than the sponsors of the relevant wrap fee programs. In these situations, there is often an implicit commission or markup included in the price of a security, which is borne directly or indirectly by clients.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. The more assets in your account, the more you will pay which creates an incentive for us to encourage you to increase assets in your account. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. Read more about our fees starting on Item 5 of the ADV Brochure. Your specific fee schedule can be found in your investment management agreement.

Conversation Starters:

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?
- How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means. Performance-based fees create an incentive for us pursue riskier investments. Likewise, differences in performance-based fees among our clients may cause us to allocate more to one client over another so that we can collect those fees. We also have an incentive for you to invest in our affiliated funds. We address these conflicts by actively monitoring your accounts and ensuring your needs are put ahead of ours.

Read more about our risks in Item 8 in our ADV Brochure, and conflicts of interest and how we manage them in Item 12.

How do your financial professionals make money?

Typically, our financial professionals receive a compensation package consisting of a base salary and discretionary bonus. Total compensation takes into account market rate for the role and expertise as well as overall revenue, new assets, retained assets, individual performance, and contributions to our culture and business strength. Payment of incentive compensation, which is a component of our employee's discretionary bonus, may create a conflict of interest for your financial professional. We have implemented internal controls to address the potential conflicts associated with performance-based fees.
